

2013 C.U.R.V.V. Design Competition

C.U.R.V.V., An Exhibit Curated by ChaCha N’Kole is looking for students and established fashion designers to showcase a garment inspired by select exhibits currently on display at the University of Penn Museum.

Event Location: University of Penn Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology, 3260 South Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104.

Date: October 13, 2013

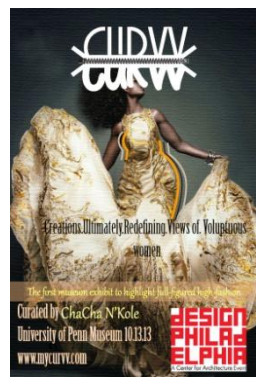

Time: 6pm-10pm

Submission Fee: $100 per entry

(Optional: Established designers can work in groups of 2 and student designers can work in groups of up to 5)

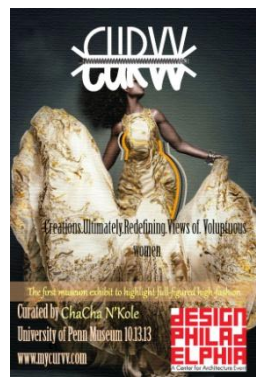

Deadline: September 13, 2013

Prize: The winner will receive a $500.00 prize and the title of C.U.R.V.V. Designer of 2013.

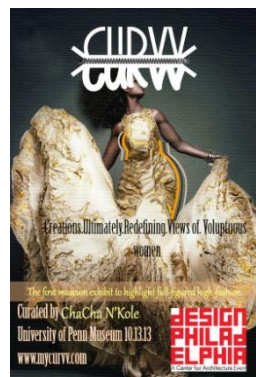

Rules: All submissions must be created specifically for C.U.R.V.V., An Exhibit Curated by ChaCha N’Kole. Any previous works will be disqualified. No refunds or designer exchanges on entry fees. Pieces must be either made to fit a full figured female (US sizes 12+) or male (US sizes 38+). Designers have the option of displaying their pieces on a mannequin or live model. Mannequins and models must be approved by the C.U.R.V.V. committee prior to the event. All garments must be accompanied by a concept/inspiration board reflecting where you gathered your historic reference. Be sure to have fun with it and make it your own!

Judging: Appointed judges will consist of fashion industry professionals, fashion design instructors, fashion history instructors, seasoned fashion designers and historians. They will judge pieces on the basis of accuracy of incorporated historic reference, creativity, technique and execution. Popular vote of attendees will also play a role in the final tally for the winner.
